

2009 JSR Award Winner // High Country News

The JSR Foundation is proud to announce the presentation of the 2009 JSR Award to the High Country News. Founded in 1970 the High Country News (HCN) has maintained a commitment to environmental stewardship, diversity and social responsibility that gives an added resonance to this unique Western voice. Through journalism that goes well beyond daily newspaper coverage HCN strives to inspire and engage readers to expand their own perspectives and accept the challenge of new stories and new ideas. HCN covers the American West's public lands, water, natural resources, grazing, wilderness, wildlife, logging, politics, communities, growth and other relevant issues now changing the face of the West.

Since 1983, the Jane Silverstein Ries Award annually recognizes a person group or organization that demonstrates a pioneering sense of awareness and stewardship of land-use values in the Rocky Mountain region. Nominations for the 2010 award are due February 13, 2010.

The Jane Silverstein Ries Foundation is a nonprofit organization dedicated to serving public spaces. We support sustainability and stewardship of the natural and designed landscapes in the Rocky Mountain Region through educational endeavors and public awareness. Whether promoting the quality of life of the built environment or stewardship of the natural landscape, we assure that the spirit of place endures. The JSR Foundation is the charitable arm of the American Society of Landscape Architects, Colorado Chapter. For more information visit www.jsrfoundation.org or call 303.830.6616